

PRIMAKOV NATIONAL RESEARCH INSTITUTE
OF WORLD ECONOMY AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
RUSSIAN ACADEMY OF SCIENCES

ISSN 2307-1494

PATHWAYS TO PEACE AND SECURITY

№ 1(52) 2017 May

SPECIAL ISSUE

ADDRESSING TERRORISM, VIOLENT EXTREMISM AND RADICALIZATION
(perspectives from Russia and the United States)

Edited by Ekaterina Stepanova

Moscow
IMEMO
2017

Academic journal "Pathways to Peace and Security"

Founded in 1987

Pathways to Peace and Security. – 2017. – №1(52).

Print ISSN 2307-1494

Online ISSN 2311-5238

Addressing Terrorism, Violent Extremism and Radicalization (perspectives from Russia and the United States): Special Issue.

Ed. by E. Stepanova. – Moscow, IMEMO, 2017. – 262 p.

ISBN 978-5-9535-0502-4

DOI:10.20542/978-5-9535-0502-4

Publisher: Primakov National Research Institute of World Economy and International Relations, Russian Academy of Sciences (IMEMO)

Editorial Board:

Leonid Istyagin (editor-in-chief), Vladimir Baranovsky, Fyodor Voitlovsky,
Irina Semenenko, Ekaterina Stepanova, Aleksandr Frolov, Nikolai Kosolapov

Assistant editor: Leli Rustamova
Administrative support: Ludmila Tulupova

Address: 23 Profsoyuznaya, Moscow, 117997, Russia

Tel.: (499) 128-82-69; (499) 128-89-87

e-mail: putikmiru@imemo.ru

IMEMO publications are available online at <http://www.imemo.ru/en>

"Pathways to Peace and Security" web-site in English:
http://www.imemo.ru/en/jour/PMB/index.php?page\_id=694

For reprint permissions, please contact the editors.

CONTENTS

Contents .....	6
From the Editor .....	7
Preface in English .....	10
1. Transnational terrorism in the Russia-U.S. and global contexts
Stepanova, Ekaterina. Russia and the United States in the fight against terrorism (comparative threats and approaches, Syria, Afghanistan, countering violent extremism).....	13
Baranovsky, Vladimir. Shifts in global political landscape.....	55
LaFree, Gary. Using open source data to track worldwide terrorism patterns.....	64
Cragin, Kim. The global ISIS threat in historical context.....	77
2. Countering terrorism and violent extremism at the national level
Starodubrovskaya, Irina. Can “jihadists” be considered rational actors? (the case of Dagestan).....	91
Cronin, Audrey. Examining deradicalization programs.....	106
Verkhovsky, Alexander. Dynamics of hate crimes and activity of the ultra-right groups and movements in Russia in the 2010s.....	116
O’Neil, Amarta. Right-wing terrorism in the West: radicalization and decentralization.....	125
3. Sources of violent extremism and antiterrorism in the Middle East
Kuznetsov, Vasili. Sources and drivers of violent extremism and radicalization in the Middle East (at the regional level and in the case of Tunisia).....	138
Sukhov, Nikolai. Problems of countering terrorism in the context of the Russia-U.S. Dialogue on the Middle East and on the conflict in Syria (2014–2016).....	155
Kofman, Michael. A tale of two campaigns: U.S. and Russian military operations in Syria.....	163
Katz, Mark. Prospects for the U.S.-Russia cooperation in the Middle East in the Trump era.....	171
Nadein-Rayevsky, Viktor. Extremism and terrorism in contemporary Turkey.....	182
4. Afghanistan and Central Asia: Russia’s and U.S. approaches
Belokrenitsky, Vyacheslav. Violent extremism in Afghanistan, Pakistan and Central Asia: a view from Russia.....	205
Stepanova, Ekaterina. The ISIS factor and the Taliban movement in Russia’s policy on Afghanistan and in the broader region.....	213
Trubnikov, Vyacheslav. Russian-American Working group on Afghanistan and the experience of the Russia-U.S. cooperation on antiterrorism.....	238
Rubin, Barnett. Beyond stalemate in Afghanistan.....	244
Gavrilis, George. Central Asia’s uncertain radicalization and the opportunity for the Russia-U.S. cooperation.....	251
 About the authors .....	 262